REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Referring to claims 1-5, 8, 10, 11, the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest identifying an incomplete transaction that should have completed prior to termination of the test case by consulting a pending transactions list, filtering out pending transactions of a type that does not likely indicate an error, and flagging all pending transactions other than those that were filtered out, in the scope and context of claim 1.

Referring to claims 12-15, 17, 19, the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest means for consulting a pending transactions list, means for filtering out transactions in the pending transactions list of a type that does not likely indicate an error; and means for flagging all transactions other than those that were filtered out, in the scope and context of claim 12.

Referring to claims 20-23, 25, the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest logic configured to identify transactions that are pending after the break signal was asserted; logic configured to determine which of the pending transactions are erroneous; and logic configured to flag erroneous transactions, in the scope and context of claim 20.

Referring to claims 26, 29, 30, the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest logic configured to identify transactions that are pending after a break command was issued by referencing a pending transactions list, and logic configured to determine which of the pending transactions are erroneous by filtering out pending transactions of a type that does not likely indicate an error, in the scope and context of claim 26.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later
